BEYOND THE FENCE LINE:
THE EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT OF ED HOFFMAN AND THE MURDER OF PRESIDENT KENNEDY

By Casey J. Quinlan & Brian K. Edwards
Foreword by Jim Marrs

Ed Hoffman is a most important eyewitness in the murder of President Kennedy. He should have been embraced for coming forward but instead was crucified by the electronic and print media. He is the only witness who can “speak” to the fundamental events of November 22, 1963. The conspirators were hoping that no one would see the activity behind the picket fence, but someone did. The irony is that the only eyewitness to their activity that afternoon has a hearing disability.

Gaeton Fonzi was one of the most relentless investigators on the House Select Committee on Assassinations in the late 1970s, remembered by former colleagues with both awe and echoes of the impatience he inspired with his pursuit of the full story behind the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Mr. Fonzi was also the staff member most publicly dismayed by the committee's final report, which concluded in 1979 that the president “was probably assassinated as a result of a conspiracy.”

Of course it was a conspiracy, said Mr. Fonzi, a journalist recruited mainly on the strength of scathing magazine critiques he had written about the Warren Commission and its conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald had acted alone in killing the president in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. But who were the conspirators? What was their motive? How could the committee close its doors without the answers?

Mr. Fonzi, who died in Florida on Aug. 30, 2012, at 76, nailed those questions to the committee’s locked doors, figuratively, in a long article he wrote the next year for Washingtonian magazine and in a 1993 book, The Last Investigation. In both, he chronicled the near-blanket refusal of government intelligence agencies, especially the C.I.A., to provide the committee with documents it requested. And he accused committee leaders of folding under pressure — from Congressional budget hawks, political advisers and the intelligence agencies themselves — just as promising new leads were emerging.

“...We must win this struggle for truth...” Let me suggest to you tonight that it’s time to go well beyond the focus of that charge. Let me suggest to you tonight that we have not only emerged victorious in that struggle, but that the truth has long ago rushed into our arms seeking our embrace. Perhaps, in fact, it got too close for us to accept it. But it was known to us from the beginning. The truth was known to us almost immediately on that fateful day thirty-five years ago when a barrage of gun fire – a barrage of gun fire – echoed through Dealey Plaza. The truth was known to us in the Government’s immediate designation of the assassin and the Government’s immediate extermination of that designated assassin. The truth was known to us in the Government’s immediate actions to cover that truth, in the immediate Government-generated deluge of misinformation to the public, in the Government’s squalid attempt at feigning a legitimate investigation. The truth was as obvious as a bright morning sun rising from the sea on a cloudless blue-sky day. It was ours to grasp, to hold, to proclaim.

Web Resources
Since the advent of the internet research has never been more accessible. Where do you look for JFK information or know what to look for? Recommended sites are below.

W. R. Poage Legislative Library
The library supports programs designed to inform and educate students, scholars, and the general public on the history of Congress, the legislative process, and current issues facing both local, state and national governments. The library encourages the preservation of materials that document the work of government, including the papers of U.S. congressional representatives, Texas state legislators, and judges. The Library is located on the Baylor University campus in Waco, Texas. Most of their holdings are on the web: http://www.baylor.edu/lib/poage/

The Mary Ferrell Foundation
The Foundation is a non-profit organization engaged in an ongoing effort to bring accessible and interactive history to a new generation of critical thinkers. With a wide topic base including the assassinations of the 1960s, the Watergate scandal, and post-Watergate intelligence abuse investigations, the MFF’s vast digital archive at www.maryferrell.org contains over 1.2 million pages of documents, government reports, books, essays, and hours of multimedia. http://www.maryferrell.org/

Assassination Archives and Research Center
The AARC’s holdings comprise the most extensive collection of records on the JFK assassination in private hands. It has approximately 1,500 books on assassinations, organized crime, covert activities, and a wide variety of other subjects relevant to the study of assassinations and related topics. Its “main files” consist of newspaper and magazine articles, unpublished manuscripts, trial transcripts, photographs, tapes, notes, letters and other materials which fill some 36 four-drawer file cabinets. Membership is available. Many of their holdings are available on the web: http://www.arrc.org

History Matters
At the end of the Cold War and the passage of the 1992 JFK Assassination Records Collection Act, the U.S. Government has declassified an enormous number of formerly-secret documents. Among the most stunning are those pertaining to the 1963 assassination of President Kennedy and subsequent investigations. These records contain stark indications of conspiracy, and a great wealth of material concerning the hows and whys of the ensuing coverup. The documents include startling “new” facts about 1960s foreign policy regarding Vietnam, Cuba, and the other frontlines of the war against Communism. Find the MFF on the web: http://www.history-matters.com/
Joe Backes – The Texas Trip Research

Backes, the JFK assassination researcher and frequent NID speaker, who brought you the latest news from the JFK Assassination Records Review Board (ARRB), now hopes to bring you the latest JFK, MLK, and RFK news as the research continues. Many of the JFK Act document releases were published in JFK Lancer’s Kennedy Assassination Chronicles magazines. Backes has acquired a skill for collecting documents by topic, which is very helpful for research purposes. Backes runs a blog, Justice For Kennedy: A Blog About the JFK Assassination and Other Political Crimes.

Russ Baker – Military Intelligence Angles

Baker is an award-winning investigative journalist. He has written for the New Yorker, Vanity Fair, the New York Times, The Nation, The Los Angeles Times, The Washington Post, the Village Voice, and Esquire, and has served as a contributing editor to the Columbia Journalism Review. He is the founder of WhoWhatWhy/the Real News Project, a nonpartisan, nonprofit news organization, operating at www.whowhatwhy.com. Baker invites you to visit his news website.

Bob Cochran – Banquet and Dealey Plaza Invocations

Cochran is based in Washington State and has been an avid JFK enthusiast all of his life. An unusual turn of events put Bob in New Orleans, Louisiana during the JFK assassination and witnessed firsthand the hate for JFK prevalent in that City. Bob also lived in New Orleans in the 1970s where he attended Warren Eastin Senior High School—the same school Lee Harvey Oswald attended. He is now a collector of JFK and conspiracy-oriented items, especially first-hand items of JFK, Jack Ruby, and Lee Harvey Oswald.

Jerry Dealey – Tours

Born and raised in Dallas, Jerry Dealey is a member of the famous Dealey family in Dallas. Dealey Plaza is named for his ancestor, George Bannerman Dealey (1859–1946), an early publisher of the Dallas Morning News and civic leader. Dealey attended school in Denver in fall of 1963, but returned every year in the summer to live with his father. Dealey is a Dallas historian, and has written a book on the history of Dallas; the Dealey’s, “Dallas Morning News” and Dealey Plaza called “D In the Heart of Texas.” Dealey is a Doc at the Old Red Courthouse Museum, and the Dallas Historical Society Hall of State in Fair Park. He also gives tours of Dallas, and the assassination-related sites. Dealey specializes in the history and politics of Dallas and is an active member and Moderator of the JFK Lancer Forum, where he provides local and historical information.

David Denton – Preparing for the 50th Anniversary

A social science instructor at Olney Central College, became interested in the JFK assassination in the late 1980s and for the last decade has attended historical symposiums on the subject in Dallas, Texas. He has interviewed people associated with the case and has researched hundreds of documents related to both Kennedy and suspected assassin Lee Harvey Oswald. In 2001, he began teaching a course on political assassinations of the 1960s, which explores the deaths of President John F. Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. Denton has brought nationally recognized experts on the JFK assassination to the area in connection with the class. Denton has given numerous presentations on the JFK assassination across Illinois and Indiana. He participated in the Illinois Humanities Council speakers’ bureau, from 1995 to 2002, giving presentations on Oswald, the JFK assassination and the Vietnam War. In recent years, Denton directed an oral history project exploring the Vietnam War, 25 years later. The work, funded through the Illinois Humanities Council, features interviews with 125 veterans from Illinois and across the nation. The resulting 600-page document was distributed to local libraries. Denton holds both bachelors and master's degrees from Eastern Illinois University. He was the 1999 recipient of the OCC Alumnus Award.

Jim DiEugenio – Garrison Updates, & Oswald, Ruth and the Rifle

DiEugenio has piloted CTKA (Citizens for Truth in the Kennedy Assassination) and its website since was it was organized as a result of the April 1993 Chicago Midwest Symposium on Assassination. Along with articles and reviews, DiEugenio has written two books on the Kennedy assassinations. “Destiny Betrayed ”(1992) was the first positive reconsideration of the Jim Garrison investigation in a generation. “The Assassinations” (2003, co-edited with Lisa Pease) analyzed the murders of RFK, MLK, and Malcolm X, but devoted most its pages to the newly released ARRB documents in the JFK case. He and Pease also edited the journal Probe (1993-2000) which focused on the releases by the ARRB and new developments in the King and RFK cases. DiEugenio has an MA in Contemporary American History from California State University Northridge. He was asked by Oliver Stone to do a commentary track on the expanded DVD version of his film JFK.

Brian Edwards - Down in Front?

Edwards has been studying the JFK assassination since 1969 and has read over 300 books on the subject. From 1978-1997, he worked as a police officer and on the police department's tactical response team in Kansas. He received his Bachelor's and Master's degree in Criminal Justice from Washburn University in Topeka, Kansas. From 1996 to 2005, served as an adjunct instructor for the Criminal Justice department, with Washburn University, and taught a variety of law enforcement-related courses. Edwards has lectured on the JFK assassination throughout the Midwest and the Alf Landon Lecture Series at Kansas State University. Edwards has served as an adjunct instructor at Friend's University in Wichita, Kansas; Ottawa University in Overland Park, Kansas, and Washburn University in Topeka, Kansas. Edwards is co-director of Project JFK/CSI Dallas, a student-oriented historical experience. For the past 20 years, Edwards and Casey Quinlan have sponsored student trips to Dallas to study the assassination. Edwards is the co-Author of the book, “Beyond The Fence Line: The Eyewitness Account of Ed Hoffman and the Murder of President Kennedy”.

Barry Ernest - The Girl on the Stairs

With a degree in journalism and communications, Barry Ernest honed his skills as an investigative reporter and features writer at newspapers in New York and Pennsylvania. It was a tip from a friend in 1967 that started Ernest looking for answers to the John Kennedy assassination. The result of those lengthy efforts is his book “The Girl on the Stairs”. His study of this subject over the years has led him to the witnesses of Dallas, as well as the documents of the National Archives. He has appeared on numerous radio talk shows and, ironically enough, has been featured in countless newspaper interviews. He also provided research and investigative services for several noted authors on the assassination, including David Lifton, Penn Jones Jr., and Harold Weisberg, the latter considered to have been the leading authority on this case. Ernest now lives with his wife in Harrisburg, Pa., where he continues to research, write, and maintain his blog while answering the many questions he is asked about the assassination and its missing witness. In 2011, Ernest was given the Mary Ferrell - JFK Lancer “Pioneer” Award for his lifetime dedication to the study of the Kennedy assassination.

Lee Farley - The Bledsoe quandary

Born and raised in Liverpool, England Farley has been interested in the Kennedy assassination since he was approximately 15 years old, now almost 25 years. In his early 20s the interest began to turn into something of an obsession and Farley started building a quite substantial book collection. Notes that accompanied his reading became quite extensive and he knew the obsession would not end until he knew who Lee Harvey Oswald really was. He was right. Today he am a member of John Simkin's Education Forum and have been working with other interested parties in trying to figure out which parts of the official assassination narrative are false and why the official story was built the way it was. Farley has focused research on some of the micro-activities of Lee Oswald both pre and post-assassination. At this conference he will be explain why Lee Oswald's movements immediately after the assassination were incredibly important to authorities, and how and why they ultimately lied about them. Farley is currently working on a book and will hopefully have something ready in 2013.

Sherry Feister - Enemy of the Truth: Witness Myths

In 1995 Fiester, a Certified Senior Crime Scene Investigator and Court recognized expert, begin to apply her professional expertise to the Kennedy assassination. The result of her research has been several NID presentations with new information concerning the fatal headshot, while including blood spatter and trajectory analysis from previous presentations. Fiester has testified as an expert in crime scene reconstruction and bloodstain pattern analysis in over 30 judicial districts in the states of Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida. Her publications include “Bloodstain Pattern Identification and Documentation: a Workbook for Analyst”, 1990, “Blood Evidence; What Does the Blood Tell Us?” Kennedy Assassination Chronicles, JFK Lancer, 1997; and “Bloodstain Pattern Analysis and the Kennedy Assassination” The Echo, England, 2002. Her new book titled, “Enemy of the Truth: Myths, Forensics, and the Kennedy Assassination”, is published by JFK Lancer. In 2003, Fiester was presented with the Mary Ferrell - JFK Lancer “New Frontier” Award in appreciation for her contributions of new evidence and furthering the study of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.
Dr. Antoinette G. Glover - Dealey Plaza Witness

Standing on a concrete pedestal at the corner of Houston and Elm Streets in Dealey Plaza, eleven-year-old Toni Glover watched the Presidential motorcade standing on a pedestal from the moment the limo turned onto Houston Street, to the second it went under the Triple Underpass making her a very young witness the Kennedy assassination. She is currently working on researching people’s emotional reaction and how it effected them throughout their lives. (Bell film frame) Dr. Glover is the Associate Professor and Director of the Writing Program at the University of Scranton. She received both her Bachelor’s degree and Master’s degree in English and Theatre from the University of Texas at Arlington. Glover then went on to accomplish her doctorate degree at the University of Texas at Dallas. Dr. Glover is also involved with a foundation in conjunction with The Women’s Resource Center that rescues the pets of abused women and children, called Safe Haven, and is a foster service for the pets of the abused.

Special Guest, Pat Hall - Oswald’s Apartment

The current owner of the 1026 N Beckley rooming house. This is where Oswald was staying from October 14 - November. 1963. The Dallas Police found the address by cross checking a telephone number given by Ruth Paine as a number to reach Oswald in case his wife Marina went into labor. Their baby Audrey Marina Rachel was born October 20th.

Larry Hancock - 48 Hours / What it tells us

Hancock is a leading historian-researcher in the JFK assassination. In 2000, Hancock received the prestigious “Mary Ferrell New Frontier Award” for the contribution of new evidence in the Kennedy assassination case. In 2001, he was also awarded the “Mary Ferrell Legacy Award” for his compilation of materials he’s made available. He co-authored, with Connie Kritzberg, “November Patriots” and is author of the acclaimed “Someone Would Have Talked”, now in its third, 2010 edition. Larry has a new book “NEXUS: Political Assassinations and the CIA” that includes new information and analysis on the CIA and Extreme Deniability, The Culture of the Agency, and Spy Games in Mexico City. Hancock describes his book saying in essence that this work deals with what happened rather than “how could something like that happen? How can you take a position that CIA officers were involved and yet maintain that it was not an act of the Agency as a whole? The only way to respond to that question is to engage in a historical study of how political assassination evolved with the Central Intelligence Agency. Hancock has also published a study of the RFK assassination, “Incomplete Justice” on the Mary Ferrell Foundation website, and along with Stuart Wexler, co-authored the publication of their new work on the MLK assassination “The Awful Grace of God” in the spring of 2011. Visit Hancock online at larry-hancock.com

Peter Janney - The Mary Meyer Murder

Janney grew up in Washington, D.C. during the Cold War era of the 1950s and 1960s. His father Wistar Janney was a senior career CIA official. The Janney family was intimately involved with many of Washington's social and political elite. Families that included Mary and Cord Meyer, as well as other high-ranking CIA officials such as Richard Helms, Jim Angleton, Tracy Barnes, Desmond FitzGerald, and William Colby. A graduate of Princeton University, Janney earned a Doctoral degree in psychology at Boston University in 1981. He has been a practicing psychologist and consultant for over 30 years. In 2002, he completed an MBA degree at Duke University's Fuqua School of Business. “Mary’s Mosaic” is his first book. Janney currently resides by the sea in Beverly, Massachusetts.
Barry Krusch - Impossible / The Case Against Lee Oswald

Krusch has a Bachelors degree in Psychology from Emory University located in Atlanta Georgia, and a Masters degree in Education from Hunter college in New York City. Krusch also attended law school at the University of Georgia for a year. After working as an investigator for Atlanta Legal Aid for four years and a Paralegal for four years, he has worked as an instructional designer, senior instructional designer, and project manager for the last twenty years. Krusch's latest book is “Impossible: The Case Against Lee Harvey Oswald”, divided into three volumes. This extensive work, over 1000 pages, demonstrates conclusively that the notion of a lone assassin in the Kennedy assassination is a complete myth, in no way justified by the evidence, and that therefore any case against Lee Harvey Oswald based on the notion of a lone assassin must completely fail. Krusch is also author of several earlier books. His first book, “The 21st Century Constitution”, published in 1992 by Stanhope Press, was reviewed by New York Law School professor Richard Bernstein in his book “Amending America” where Bernstein stated Krusch’s work “may well be the most thoughtful and thorough reframing of the Constitution yet attempted.” His second book, “Would the Real First Amendment Please Stand Up?” was published in 1996. As a result of his works on the constitution, Krusch has appeared on the Tom Snyder radio show, as well as C-SPAN. He is also listed as an encyclopedia entry in the “Encyclopedia Of Constitutional Amendments”.

Jim Marrs - Ruby Revisited

A prolific reporter and writer on many topics, Marrs, anative of Fort Worth, Texas, earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism from the University of North Texas in 1966 and attended Graduate School at Texas Tech in Lubbock for two years more. He has worked for several Texas newspapers, including the “Forth Worth Star-Telegram”, where beginning in 1968 he served as police reporter and general assignments reporter covering stories locally, in Europe and the Middle East. After a leave of absence to serve with a Fourth Army intelligence unit during the Vietnam War, he became military and aerospace writer for the newspaper and an investigative reporter. Since 1980, Marrs has been a free-lance writer, author and public relations consultant. He also published a rural weekly newspaper along with a monthly tourism tabloid, a cable television show and several videos. In 2007, Marrs retired from the University of Texas at Arlington where he had taught a course on the Kennedy assassination since 1976. In 1989, his book, “Crossfire: The Plot That Killed Kennedy,” was published to critical acclaim and reached “The New York Times” Paperback Non-Fiction Best Seller list in mid-February 1992. “Crossfire”, became the basis for the Oliver Stone film JFK where Marrs served as a chief consultant for both the film’s screenplay and production. An award-winning journalist, Marrs is listed both in “Who’s Who in the World” and “Who’s Who in America”. Marrs has won several writing and photography awards including the Aviation Aerospace Writer's Association's National Writing Award and Newsmaker of the Year Award from the Fort Worth Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists. In 1993, Marrs received Freedom Magazine's Human Rights Leadership Award. Marrs has appeared on numerous national and regional radio and TV shows. Visit him on the web at jimmarrs.com

Casey Quinlan - Oswald and the Coca Cola Caper

Quinlan was born and raised in the greater Kansas City area and has been a high school American History and Government teacher for the past 36 years. He served in the United States Army with the 9th Infantry as a Medical Corpsman during the Vietnam War and has a Bachelor of Science in Social Studies and a Master's Degree in American History from Emporia State University, Emporia, Kansas. He is the director of “Project JFK”, a student-oriented educational experience designed for high school, college and adults exploring the murder of President Kennedy. He was named “Outstanding Educator” in 1994 and in 2008 by JFK Lancer. He has been studying the assassination of President Kennedy for over 45 years and has read over 1000 books. In 1991, Quinlan was a Guest Historian for the A&E Network and the History Channel for Oliver Stone’s blockbuster movie, JFK. In 2007, Quinlan presented “Beyond the Fence Line: The Ed Hoffman Story”. He has been a featured lecturer at the JFK Lancer Conference since 2007. He and Brian Edwards received the JFK Lancer 2011 “New Frontier” Award for their continued efforts to write and inform students of the truth behind the murder of JFK. His latest lecture series; “The Eyes of Texas”, unveils the people behind the murder of President Kennedy, along with his new program, “Lee Oswald and the Great Coca Cola Caper” explains where Lee Oswald actually was during the murder of President Kennedy.

Ben Rogers - What's new in the Poage Library Archives

Ben Rogers is Director of W. R. Poage Legislative Library, a research facility that houses congressional records and personal papers related to political history. The Library currently features Kennedy and Johnson exhibits: JFK50: Primary, Election, Inauguration and LBJ: Texan, Politician, President. The library began its JFK Assassination Research Collection in 2004 with the papers of Penn Jones, Jr. The W. R. Poage Legislative Library now hosts papers from not only Penn Jones, but also Jack White, John Armstrong, Gary Shaw, John Kelin, Roy Schaeffer, Paul Hoch, Mae Brussels and others. A new collection from the Mary Ferrell Foundation will be a part of the Library soon. The Library's collection includes extensive magazines, newspapers and newsletters related to research since 1963. Most materials are listed online and are open to researchers.

Bill Simpich - The Mexico City Solution Is In Our Hands

Simpich is a civil rights attorney and an antiwar activist in the San Francisco Bay Area. The main areas of his law practice are government misconduct and toxic tort violations. He also writes for publications such as “Truthout”, “Counterpunch” and “OpedNews”. Simpich considers the assassination cases to be a poorly understood area of civil rights violations. To preserve cold cases, he is preparing a proposed JFK Preservation of Evidence Act that would be applicable in both of these areas of the law and administered by a citizen panel similar to the ARRB. Simpich's study of the JFK case focuses on the documentary evidence, rather than firearms, acoustics, and other forensic evidence. His current focus is Mexico City and the counterintelligence aspects of the JFK assassination investigation.

Ed Tatro - Anecdotes

Ed Tatro taught high school English for 38 years specializing in science-fiction; mystery and horror; satire and comedy; creative writing; media and propaganda; and the origin, history and poetry of rock music. He also taught college and adult education courses for thirty years specializing in the JFK assassination, subliminal messages in advertising, the influence of rock music on drug abuse, backward messages in music, and plagiarism in music. Tatro is a distinguished author of over thirty mystery and horror short stories, literary essays, and poems published in many national magazines. Researcher and expert in many areas of the assassination research, he has authored many articles pertaining to the JFK assassination conspiracy and has been acknowledged/footnoted in many JFK assassination books. He contributed research to Senator Sam Ervin's Watergate investigative committee, the House Select Committee on Assassinations and the National Academy of Sciences (JFK Acoustical Analysis Project). Tatro attended Clay Shaw's trial in New Orleans, February, 1969, and Judge Edward Haggerty gave Tatro access to the court exhibits. He was a minor consultant to Oliver Stone's film, JFK. Tatro was also responsible, via the LBJ Library, of the release of the rough drafts of NSAM #273, which he shared with L. Fletcher Prouty, who then shared them with Oliver Stone for JFK. He testified before the Assassination Records Review Board, March, 1995, in Boston, Massachusetts and was responsible, via the ARRB, for the release of the unidentified print found on a box in the alleged sniper's nest in the Texas School Book Depository. Tatro was a consultant to Nigel Turner's "The Men Who Killed Kennedy" series.

EBERHARD D. GARRISON

October 1, 2012

Re: Jim Garrison - On the Trail of the Assassins

To all of my father’s supporters:

In 1988, in the Introduction to his third book, On The Trail of the Assassins, my father wrote, “I hope this book will help the younger generation to understand better the political, social, and historical consequences of the assassination and the subsequent cover-up.” Almost twenty-five years after my father wrote these words, his work endures despite the repeated efforts of those who defend the Warren Commission.

Certainly, in anticipation of the 50th Anniversary of John F. Kennedy’s Assassination, we will see more of the re-packaged and untenable defenses of the Warren Commission. Thus, I write to thank all of my father’s supporters and to advise the younger generation that my father’s book, On the Trail of the Assassins, is available again as it is being republished in electronic and hardback formats.

Sincerely,

Eberhard D. Garrison

NEXUS: The CIA and Political Assassination

Larry Hancock

NEXUS — written to provide a full picture of the culture and conditions which could allow illegal acts to be instigated by CIA personnel and then not be exposed by an Agency investigation.

NEXUS bravely asks, how can you take a position that CIA officers were involved and yet maintain that it was not an act of the Agency as a whole?

NEXUS — a historical study of how political assassination evolved within the Central Intelligence Agency. And perhaps most importantly, asks who were the people actually involved in such actions as political assassination and even on a grander scale, “executive action” of senior political leaders during the 1950’s and 1960’s.

The Door of Memory: Aubrey Rike and the Assassination of President Kennedy

by Aubrey Rike

with Colin McSween

Tribute by David Lifton

While in Trauma Room 1, Aubrey Rike found himself at the center of an unequaled time in history as he assumed the impromptu undertaking of providing assistance to First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy and President Kennedy. Aubrey shares heartbreaking moments in time that became forever ingrained in his memory, one that came as an opportunity to offer kindness and caring to a slain President and his grieving widow. Now, he has opened that door of memory and asked us to step through.

Appian Way Productions

A message from George DiCaprio of Appian Way Productions and the authors of Legacy of Secrecy, Lamar Waldron and Thom Hartman:

Convivial greetings to the attendees and speakers of Lancer. We hope that our attempt to create a feature film about the JFK murder will be greeted with a wave of interest from the discerning scholars who make the trip to Dallas each year. Beyond this, we hope the film arouses a wide-spread demand for the release of all the JFK assassination files that are still being withheld from public scrutiny.
Sherry P. Fiester, a Certified Senior Crime Scene Investigator and Court recognized expert begin to apply her professional expertise to the Kennedy Assassination. Sherry is a court certified expert in Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida, totaling in over 30 Judicial Districts and Louisiana State Federal Court as an expert in Crime Scene Investigation, Crime Scene Reconstruction and Blood Spatter Analysis and Reconstruction. She is published, and recognized as an instructor at state and national levels.

In 1995, Sherry began to apply her expertise to the Kennedy assassination. Later that year she spoke at the 1995 Coalition on Political Assassinations (COPA) Conference in Washington, DC. Sherry was the guest speaker at the “Dealey Plaza Echo” Kennedy Assassination Conference in the UK in 1996. A regular presenter at JFK Lancer November in Dallas Conferences since 1996, Sherry is a recipient of the JFK Lancer-Mary Ferrell “Pioneer” Award.

Now retired from police work, Sherry is utilizing various forensic fields to promote a better understanding of the Kennedy assassination. The results have been a variety of speaking presentations and more recently, completion of the book, “Enemy of Truth: Myths, Forensics and the JFK Assassination.”

The great enemy of truth is very often not the lie, deliberate, contrived and dishonest; but the myth, persistent, persuasive and unrealistic. - John F. Kennedy
